"As a man grows older and wiser, he talks less and says more."

Lowell Textile Institute Alumni Association

The 34th annual reunion of the Alumni Association will be held on Saturday, May 20, 1933.

12.00 M.—Buffet lunch will be served in the Assembly Hall of the Institute. The price of the luncheon ticket will be $1.00.

2.00 P. M.—Technical Hour.

The general chairman in charge of this hour is Charles H. Forsaith, '20, superintendent of the Jackson Mills, Nashua, N. H. The sub-chairmen are as follows: Prof. Charles L. Howarth, '17, chemistry and dyeing; Alexander Campbell, '23, engineering; Richard W. Rawlinson, '31, cotton manufacturing; Philip H. Warren, '05, wool manufacturing.

A large number of interesting papers are being prepared for discussion and I think it will be worthwhile to attend.

ARTHUR A. STEWART,
Secretary-Treasurer
Lowell Textile Institute Alumni Association

Textile Players Elect Officers

At a meeting of the Lowell Textile Players which was held on May 17, in Room 341, the following officers were elected for the school year 1933-1934:

President: Robert J. Henderson '34.
Vice-Pres.: William J. Wynn '34.
Secretary: David J. Fox '34.

Professor Elmer Fickett, faculty advisor, will again serve the organization as its treasurer.

This meeting formally closed the players' activities for this year, but we are all looking forward to their next annual production.

Little Jimmie: "Say, Mother, how much am I worth?"

Mother: "Why, you're worth a million dollars to me, Jimmie."

Jimmie: "Can't you advance me a dime on it, Mother?"

"Mother," said little Bobby, in an injured tone, "you have no right to send me to bed without my supper."

"Why, what do you mean?" inquired his mother.

"The Declaration of Independence," proceeded Bobby, with great emphasis, "says there should be no governing without the consent of the governed."

"Bascom is absent-minded, isn't he?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well, the other night when he got home he knew there was something special he wanted to do that evening, but he couldn't think what it was. After worrying over it for a couple of hours he remembered what it was.

"What was it?"

"He wanted to go to bed early."

High Scholastic Rank Aids Success

Indicated in Study by Boston University President and Deans

When a student burns the traditional "midnight oil," sacrifices opportunities "to paint the town red," and plugs at his homework for the sake of earning a high scholarship index, he is paving the road to success in later life. Such a conclusion is reached by President Daniel L. Marsh, Dean Everett W. Lord of C. B. A., and Dean Arthur H. Wilde of the School of Education, all Phi Beta Kappa men, who maintain that college scholarship is a significant index to later success in life.

President Marsh has had access to statistics concerning the proportion of "smart" college students who make good in business and in professional worlds. As a result, he acknowledges that single individuals with low grades may make decided successes in their fields of work, but that, on the average, students of high scholarship rank succeed more often than the colleglans who merely pass their courses.

He declares, "Statistics have proven that the students who rank the highest in college courses, on the average, attain a greater measure of success in the world of affairs than do those who rank low in college."—Intercollegiate Digest.

Jim: "My dad must have been into all sorts of mischief when he was a boy."

Sam: "What makes you think so?"

Jim: "He knows exactly what questions to ask me when he wants to find out what I've been doing."

Fred: "Mother gives me a penny every time I take a dose of cod liver oil."

Arthur: "That's great! What do you do with the money?"

Fred: "Mother takes it and buys some more cod liver oil."

"Are you a doctor?" the sweet young thing asked of the youth at the soda counter.

"No," he replied, "I'm a fizzician."

Lowell Textile Drops Two Games

Loses to Providence and Upsala Colleges.

A crack Providence baseball club came to Lowell and defeated a strong Textile club. The final score was 7 to 2. One bad inning in which three hits, three walks and two errors combined to give the Providence team four runs, spelled disaster for the Textile team. Previous to this inning the game was very interesting—Providence scoring two runs first and Savard of Textile tieing the score with a tremendous home run with Kokoska on base. Then came the disastrous inning which spelled defeat for the local outfit. The Providence team scored one run in the eighth for good measure. Poremba and Savard were the stars for Textile

About a week later Textile ran into a tartar in the form of Upsala College and received a beating by the score of 5 to 1. Without detracting from the victory of Upsala, it is only fair to state that it was an off day for Textile. Hits were made in plentiful numbers, but were made at inopportune moments—that is when no one was on base. The less said about this game the better. The only redeeming features of the game were the fielding of Poremba, and the batting of Kokoska.

Textile Trims New Hampshire University

Score 9 to 1—Turcotte Stars

"Batter up!" the umpire cries.

The crowd settles back — the first batter advances to the plate — the catcher and pitcher exchange signals —the pitcher winds up—a whistling sphere—and then . . . Crack! A ball soars out past the centerfielder and a runner calmly circles the bases.

This little scene was enacted at the University of New Hampshire's baseball diamond a short time ago; the contestant teams being New Hampshire University and Lowell Textile Institute. The batter was none other than Textile's lead-off man—Dave Turcotte.

From then on the result was a foregone conclusion; Textile adding one more run in the fourth, three in the fifth, and two each in the sixth and seventh inning.

With its pitching ace "Zeke" Garner on the mound, Textile held the New

2500 Persons Visit Our Institute

Increased public interest in the teaching and research work of the Lowell Textile Institute was indicated on May 5, 1933, when approximately 2500 persons took advantage of the annual "Open House" to inspect our property and equipment.

Faculty members and students were guides for the many visitors, and a tour of the Institute under their leadership ended only when every important laboratory and classroom had been inspected and its equipment explained. Placards describing the hundreds of different machines were prominently displayed throughout the building.

There were several interesting exhibitions, each complete in itself, and demonstrating the type of results obtained by the machinery in the room where the display was shown.

It was also interesting to note that slips were handed out to the visitors, calling their attention to possible classes at the Institute this summer. These classes will be open to the public and will be held at night if enough names can be secured. They will include charcoal drawing, costume illustration, pencil drawing, color theory, water-color work, and oil painting.

He Got the Point

Professor (examining homework): "Paul, that looks like your father's handwriting."

Paul Draper: "Sure, I used his fountain pen."

Customer: "I should like to see some good second-hand cars."

Salesman: "So should I."

EDITORIAL

Another year has rolled by and many of us are able to look back upon a very profitable and pleasant period. The fall team started with a bang. As usual the innocent Freshies were the victims, the Sophs taking the matter into their own hands and proceeding to keep the incoming students in their proper places. However, it was all in fun and practically everyone looked upon it as such.

Then came the football season. Although our team wasn't on the long end of the score in every game, it made a very creditable showing throughout the entire season. The members of the squad deserve much credit for their splendid work.

The basketball five also kept the good old name of Textile up where it belongs in the sporting world. Our team defeated such clubs as Clark, Springfield, New Hampshire, Panzer and Arnold. We were beaten by Tufts by only 4 points and M. I. T. by 2 points. Probably one of the greatest games ever to be played in the gymnasium was the one with the Crimson Independents. This time we were conquered by the exceedingly small margin of 3 points, and it wasn't until after the Harvard players knew that they had been in a game.

Our baseball team appears to be holding its own with the other college teams. We have already defeated, among other teams, the University of New Hampshire. Our reliable hurler, "Zeke" Garner, is without doubt the greatest individual asset to the team.

The Textile Show was again a success this year. The play was presented in a very good manner by members of the cast, who also should be complimented on their endeavors. Dancing which followed the three-act comedy was enjoyed by members of the faculty as well as the students and their friends.

Upstream Day has come and gone. It is needless to say that we had a swell time—that's understood. The sports, games and "eats" could not have been any better. Those of you who missed the fun should be sure to attend next year.

All in all, the school year 1932-1933 has been a decided success. We have had a year's advancement in our studies, from which we must have benefitted. Our school activities have been very enjoyable and pleasing. We have made many new acquaintances. The members of our graduating class have completed their courses and we wish them real success in whatever field they may enter. Let's hope all the undergraduates will be back together again after vacations for another year of college life.

Man About Textile

Well, the play is over with. Upstream has come and gone, and now for the Final Exams. . . . As usual, we had the afternoon of the show off. . . . The show as usual was up to its par of excellence. . . . We have finally found out how "Bugs" Beigbeder "clubbed" the re-exam in P. Chem. . . . He even presented "Doc" Chapin with a valentine, in class, the other day. . . . "Cue-ball" Leslie again played a leading part. The boys brought a well-wrapped bundle into the Junior P. Chem class the other day, and after depositing the bundle roughly on the floor, it was found that the boys were "holding the bag" and "Cue-ball" was in it, much to his chagrin.

The Institute was a point of much public interest the other day. It happened to be the Annual Open House on Friday, May 5. . . . Birtwell invented the only automatic, super-accurate apparatus for making his iron determinations. His demonstrations and lectures concerning the use of said apparatus, which occupied the greater part of the organic laboratory, were well attended. As yet, however, he has not received the necessary O.K. in Quant Lab. . . . The Junior and the Senior Chemists visited the plant of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Co., in Manchester, N. H., on May 3, and the Sayles Finishing plant and the U. S. Finishing plant in Pawtucket, R. I., on May 10. The trips were very interesting.

Shoddy

Girl friend: "My aunt in Venice is sending me a gondola for my birthday. How am I going to play it?"

Alcott: "Such ignorance! You don't play a gondola, you throw it over your shoulder like a shawl."

"A liar," says the Daily Cardinal, "is one who has no partition between his information and his imagination."

A man wrapped up in himself makes a very small package.

"What happens to the horses you follow?"

"Oh! They usually follow the other horses."

Well! the warm weather has arrived as usual for the final examinations.

Mary: "Irving says he can read you like a book."

Helen: "Yes, and darn him, he wants to use the Braille system."

Red: "Do you have any trouble with "shall" and "will"?

Doc: "No, my wife says, 'you shall' and I say, 'I will'."

Oscar: "Why is it that statistics show women live longer than men?"

Dick: "Well, you know paint is a great preserver."

The lady remarked: "Hoho, did you notice that pile of wood in the yard?"

"Yes'm, I seen it."

"You should mind your grammar. You mean you saw it."

"No'm, You saw me see it, but you ain't seen me saw it."

Finis.

PHI PSI SPRING FORMAL

Gamma Chapter of Phi Psi Fraternity held their annual spring party Friday, May 12th, at Harrisonia Manor on the Daniel Webster Highway, New Hampshire.

Couples drifted in at 9.30 and the dance floor was soon crowded with dancers. Dancing was enjoyed to the music of the Harrisonia Orchestra until 12.30.

Dinner was served soon after the conclusion of the dancing, after which a general meandering about took place. The party came to a conclusion at a later hour.

This decidedly successful party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Kennedy and credit is due the committee consisting of Kenneth B. Doyle, chairman, assisted by Fred A. Diehl and Claude M. LeBel who handled the arrangements admirably.

Friend: "Why is it that your son rides in a car and you always go on the street car?"

Father: "Well, he has a rich father and I haven't."

Wit And Nit

Birtwell: "We had the fire out just 10 minutes after we got there."

Holden: "Did it have much of a start on you?"

Birtwell: "Did it! Just the cellar walls were standing!"

Years ago, folks used to wait patiently for a slow moving stage coach, but now they kick like the devil if they miss one revolution of a revolving door.—(Ed Wynn).

Then there was the Scotchman who always jumped over the gate to save the hinges.

We hate to see the students going without hats, yet we'd rather see them going without hats than wearing the sort of hats that they would wear if they did wear hats.

"Know where I can get hold of Mary?"

"No. I've never been out with her."

The patrolman halted the car for speeding.

"Got any intoxicating liquor in this car?" he asked.

"No," replied the motorist.

"Got any machine guns, bombs, or shotguns?"

"No," answered the driver indignantly. "I'm neither a gangster nor a bootlegger."

"Then I guess we can lock him up, boys," said the captain of the bluecoats.

Mighty Particular

A wealthy society lady had just engaged a new maid and was instructing her in the duties of waiting on the table.

"At dinner, Mary," she explained, "you must remember always to serve from the left and take the plates from the right. Is that clear?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the girl condescendingly. "What's the matter, superstitious or something?"

1936 Column

Well fellows, this is the last issue of the Text for this school year. We extend our sincere appreciation to those who have helped us in our efforts to publish your paper.

Upstream Day offered a great show and two thirds of the students turned out to enjoy the sport. Among the attractions was the dash about the woods by Redmond while the boys ran away with his "pants." Simon Lagree Hirsch must have thought Crawford was Uncle Tom the way he pounded him with a soccer ball. In the races the freshmen team made a poor showing. Kennedy was on the winning team in the three-legged race. Anthony and Duggan played ball all day long. Roach and Robinson had an unintentional spill in the Merrimack. What the Class of '36 lacked in victory they certainly made up for in attendance.

Berg is looking for an office job. John vows that he will show Professor Dow that he is entirely capable of working in an office.

The "new deal" has brought about the return of beer and tandem bicycles. Hirsch is the proud owner of the cycle and makes nightly trips with Luescher up to the Tyngsboro Bridge and return. Some speed demons and by the way, did you hear the horn?

Urbanetti believes in one story colleges buildings. After hiking over all the stairs in M. I. T. on a recent Saturday, he became an advocate of one story buildings.

Lincoln is seriously thinking of applying for an engineer's license. He claims that after starting Bates' car for a year, he can run anything.

Upon looking back on the year, we have many pleasant recollections. We will never forget our meetings with the sophomores and the paddles. The first "five weeker" was a dreaded event. The engineers vs. the chemists series in basketball was the only intra-class tussle. Well, we'll all be back next fall to greet the new arrivals!

Fuller is now using crutches to hobble about. This is due to the Rifle Club letter he was awarded. Judging by the size, people will think we have a coast artillery corp instead of a rifle club organization.

Hodgman thinks the freshmen-sophomore battle is still in progress. He recently met and battled with Cobb under the archway. The freshman war tank was victorious over the sophomore juggernaut.

The Cut Sheet

(With Apologies to the Registrar)

The last issue is here and now I have my last chance to unload the last remnants of Campus chatter for the year. So here goes . . . . to get a load off my mind.

"Zeke" Garner showed the boys how he drives around Kezar Falls. On the recent trip to Rhode Island, he drove into someone's back yard to turn around. Daley and Murphy followed him think that "Zeke" had found a short cut. . . . Henderson got quite a haircut that looks like it had something to do with the jig-saw puzzle craze . . . . Kidder came near slaying all the women on the Ayer Special when he appeared wearing his rifle club "T". Many of the other members of the club are wearing these emblems. . . . Incidentally one freshman informs me that there is a five-letter man connected with the club.

Kennedy '36, and Lauder '34 paddled up the river to upstream. . . . The "Baron" contributed to the entertainment by showing the boys how he strums that banjo. . . . Wells, Edlund, & Co., wouldn't leave the cribbage board at home for the day. Even "Prexy" played cribbage. . . . Edlund lost his tie for the third consecutive year. . . . Moreno introduced several cowboy songs to the boys. The wide open spaces may have had something to do with it but was that all? . . . Leslie joined the painless human fly club. . . . And no one was thrown in the river.

"Sy" Shapiro recently got soaked when three paper bags full of water landed on top of him while he was playing horseshoes. . . . Too bad they didn't hit Hindle. . . . Let's hope the hot weather forces Wynn to remove that fur piece from his upper lip.

And now, the seniors are about to leave us—some to join the army of the unemployed but many others to break into the industrial world. . . . It is expected that "Bud" Wells and "Phil" Dempsey will locate in New York. Drop in to the office of the Daily Mirror, fellows, and tell W. W. that I'll meet him at the columnists' convention. . . . Murphy will be O. K. if he can forget about the woman he had at the Tech Show. . . . No longer will Young's yellow shoes tread thru the halls of learning of our fair institute. . . . Hegy will continue to fool around with photography and although he may be tough, he'll be able to get pictures of washers without synthetizing them like Murphy found it necessary to do. Well, good luck, fellows, and some day drop back again and when you've made your million, donate a little to the A. A. Well, here's so long until next year with a hope that next year's crop of freshmen will be better than the past year's.

Really Simple

A look of recognition came over the diner's face as the newcomer entered the restaurant.

"Pardon me, sir," he said. "I think we met here a fortnight ago."

The newcomer shook his head.

"Sorry," he replied politely enough, "but I do not know you."

"Maybe not—but I recognized your umbrella."

"That's impossible sir," went on the newcomer. "A fortnight ago I hadn't an umbrella."

"No, but I had," came the other's retort.

Whosit: "Why did MacGregor fish without any bait on his hook?"

Whatsit: "Because he and O'Brien agreed that the first one to catch a fish would pay for the hire of the boat."

Heeza Faker's Comments

Raymond Small does a little lab work and sells his hands.

—The first time a bride cries it is a catastrophe. The second time it is a calamity. The third time it is unfortunate. After that it is simply a nuisance.

A freshman submitted the following question:

"When strolling with a lady is it proper to walk on the outside or the inside of the lady?"

"I don't know," cried the excited feminine voice in the darkness, "whether you are my husband or a burglar, but I'm going to be on the safe side and shoot."

Professor Cushing actually lectured a class once with his hands tied.

Fellows who take slide rules, hooks, etc., that do not belong to them have no business to be among us. It is a pretty small piece of work. Just remember that we are not all millionaires and cannot afford to lose these necessary articles.

Noticed in a French speakeasy:

1. Gentlemen are requested not to forget things when they leave. Four blondes were found under the tables when we swept up this morning.
2. If a customer feels like singing he will kindly use the concert hall. It is marked "Gents."
3. Gentlemen are not allowed to speak to strange ladies without a proper introduction. Introductions can be bought from the bartender at $4 a pint.
4. Just try one of our cigars and you'll agree with us that it is much easier to drink than to smoke.
5. Please don't ask the waiters to throw your girl's twin sister out. The chances are that you are seeing double.
6. Gentlemen will be searched before leaving the premises. Too many have walked out with the brass cuspidors, thinking they were gold watches.
7. Please don't tell the bartender any hard luck stories. He'll start crying and the booze will taste salty.
8. Gentlemen are requested to keep their hands out of the drinks. Why take a chance on burning your ukulele fingers?

MATTHEW'S ODE TO THE SOPHOMORES

I wish I was a birdie's egg
As rotten, as rotten could be;
And have a place up in a nest
High up in a big tree;
And when a smarty sophomore
Looked up at me in glee,
I'd break my rotten little self
And shower him with me.

Teacher: "Can anyone tell me the meaning of rumor?"

Boy: "A person that sleeps some place he doesn't live."

Teacher: "Carl, why are you late?"

Carl: "Because they ring the bell before I get here."

They Satisfy

. . all you could ask for!

Just two words . . .

Yes, I have heard about two words; and now and then three words—but "They Satisfy" means "To gratify fully."

Why do these two words "they satisfy" fit Chesterfields? Because Chesterfield Cigarettes are milder. Because Chesterfield Cigarettes taste better.

Chesterfield's way of blending and cross-blending fine Turkish and Domestic tobaccos brings out better flavor and aroma.

They Satisfy!

And now to say so long until next September, but before signing off, on behalf of all the members of the fraternity, I wish success and happiness to all the brothers receiving their sheepskin this year. And now Auf wiederseehn.

Don't Go There

My friend, have you heard of the land
of Ynwn,
On the banks of the river Slow,
Where blossoms the Wait-a-While flower fair,
And the Sometime-or-Other scents the air,
And the Soft Go-Easies grow?

It lies in the valley of What's-the-use,
That Tired-feeling is a native there,
In the province of Letter-slide,
It's the home of the Listless I Don't Care,
Where the Put-it-off's abide

A Flash

Employer: "Are you speedy on the typewriter?"

Applicant: "I'm so speedy I work on a water-cooled typewriter with an asbestos ribbon."

Hampshire team to seven scattered hits and one run; at the same time "punching out" thirteen hits and nine runs; thus trimming a highly-touted New Hampshire University team.

Defensively, Textile made her best showing of the year — the two errors made coming at a time when no damage was incurred.

Turcotte, with three hits, lead the Textile team with Jurewicz, Kokoska, Shapiro and Jurek following with two safe hits.

Professional Answer

A doctor had been to see one of his patients, a widow.

"You are worried and slightly morbid, my dear lady," he said. "You should look about you and marry again."

"Oh, doctor," she answered coyly, "is this a proposal?"

"Allow me to remind you, madam," came the reply, "that a doctor prescribes medicine, but he doesn't take it."

Didn't Have the Right Angle

Passerby (to angler): "How are the fish in this stream?"

Angler: "I really don't know. I've dropped them a line every day for a week, but I haven't got any reply yet."

On the West Side, Too

Mr. Johnson (to neighbor): "My house ought to be warm this winter.

Neighbor: "Why?"

Mr. Johnson: "The painter gave it three coats this last month."

SIGMA OMEGA PSI

The District Council of Sigma Omega Psi held a Spring Formal which many of the fellows attended. A good time was had by all.

Bill Stein said that he couldn't go to the formal because he had a T. C. & D. re-exam the following day. Maybe so, maybe so! !

Ray Cowan is again going out of town for his girl friends. This time it's Gertrude in Nashua.

John Berg seems to be having some trouble with his mechanism. The only trouble I find with it," says John, "is staying awake in class."

"Hy" Greenbaum has been visiting the frat house quite often lately. Wonder if the little girls down the street have anything to do with it?

Ralph Harwood has the other sophomore chemists in the house all burnt up. He finished ten English cards in one afternoon and only has a few more left to do. Don't get too far ahead, Ralph!

"Cy" Shapiro says that his hands are as hard as rocks. May he that's why the balls bounce right out of his baseball glove.

Eta Chapter of Sigma Omega Psi held an election of officers at the last formal meeting. The officers elected for the coming year are:

President—Raymond B. Cowan.
Vice-President—Harold Smith.
Secretary—Joseph Shain.
Treasurer—Edward Grossman

We wish to thank the old officers for their guidance during this most successful year.

Don't Argue With the Captain

A Mississippi River steamboat was stopped in the mouth of a tributary stream, owing to a dense fog. An old lady passenger inquired of the captain the cause of the delay.

"Can't see up the river," was his laconic reply.

"But I can see the stars overhead," she replied sharply.

"Yes, Ma'am," came back the captain, "but, unless the boilers bust, we ain't going that way."

The Gain in Bargain

"If your mother bought seven baskets of grapes, the dealer's price being a quarter a basket, how much money would the purchase cost her?" asked the new teacher.

"You never can tell," answered Tommy, who was at the head of the class. "Ma's great at bargaining!"

PHI PSI

The Dempsey-Morse feud is still going on, although it is just a question of stamina from now on.

* * *

Friday night's news report said "that the snow is now gone from Maine Highways." Bill Brown took advantage and went home for the week-end.

Hallissy maintains that his car stopped on dead center the other night. His mark for originality dropped fifty per cent.

Diehl is becoming our "forgotten man." We still keep a light burning for you, Freddy.

Followers of the race-track will be glad to know that "Dirt-Track Le Bel" is back in the harness.

It is rumored that Echavarria's sympathies are with Peru.

Connolly is going to take the billiard table home with him. We all hope that practice will make perfect.

* * *

Blomberg made good his promise by bringing a girl four-feet-two to the house party.

Hirsch and Elemann plan to ride their tandem to the World's Fair. We hope this does not start a return to that once popular sport.

A Fast One

Freddie (watching a tennis game): Boy, that's what I call quick!

Eddie: Mm-m, that's nothing. Why, when I turn the light out at night, I'm in the bed and asleep by the time it's dark."

The Horns of a Dilemma

Billy: "Daddy, why do cows have horns?"

His Father: "Why, er, to call the calves, of course. Now, Billy, study your lesson and stop asking foolish questions."

Missed Nothing

Interviewer: "So you remember way back to the Revolution, do you?"

Old Timer: "Yassa. De Revolution and Gen'l Washington, an' all o' them.

Interviewer: "I suppose you witnessed the fall of the Roman Empire, too?

Old Timer: "Nossa, Ah didn't exactly see it, but Ah do recollect hearin' somethin' drop!"
